WORK EXPERIENCE

Vodafone (Collection Sales) (Sep 2013-August 2014)

- In Vodafone, we used to call customers who had been using their number for three months to remind them about their pending bill payment. We informed them that their Vodafone number's bill was due and needed to be paid; otherwise, their number would be disconnected
- We used to call customers whose numbers had been disconnected and encourage them to restart their number and continue using the service because they were valuable customers for our company
- We also had a collection target, which required us to achieve a certain amount per day and a specific total for the entire month. Our growth was measured based on this performance. Additionally, for customers using more than one of our numbers, we encouraged them to actively use their numbers
